Thriving at Work Guide UK

Foreword

It has been three years since we started work on creating the ‘CMHA: Thriving at Work Guide’. This was a collaborative project with our members, who worked with us to create a practical guide for businesses in response to the recommendations in the 2017 Stevenson/Farmer ‘Thriving at Work Review of Mental Health and Employers’. We know CMHA members have valued and embraced the framework in the CMHA Guide and, through our annual Thriving at Work Assessment, it has been great to see the progress that has been made.

Much has changed over these past three years and we have seen that in how workplace mental health and wellbeing programmes have evolved, demonstrating new and innovative practice and we feel now is the right time to update the Guide. We continue to support the recommendations in the Stevenson/Farmer report and these still form the cornerstone of this framework.

In this new Guide, we go further by introducing new Standards; a stronger focus on inclusion and diversity and the intersectionality with mental health; and, a more ambitious set of actions for employers to adopt and lead the way in creating mentally healthy workplaces.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank our members, Board, Executive Team and Advisory Group for your on-going support and contribution to our Thriving at Work programme.

– Alison Unsted, Director of Strategy & Operations

“The CMHA Thriving at Work framework underpins and informs our global mental health & wellbeing strategy at Oliver Wyman. It is incredibly useful tool to help us to assess our wellbeing at work strategy globally. The annual CMHA Assessment allows us to review our progress, identify where we can make improvements to our thinking, as well as receiving advice from the CMHA team to continue to evolve our wellbeing at work journey.”

– Gemma Porter, Global Wellness Manager, Oliver Wyman

How to Use This Guide

Key to Levels

These have been arranged into four levels to illustrate interventions taken at different stages of progress:

Committed – pledged to deliver this Standard and identified resources and a plan to do so.

Achieving – delivering on Standard and are measuring outcomes to inform progress.

Excelling – leading and innovating with new ideas and ways of thinking on meeting the Standard.

Health Creating – going beyond the Standards to build a workplace that is creating health where people flourish.

There are 10 Standards for workplace mental health, which we have divided under three strategic Pillars. These Pillars represent the three strategic guiding principles that organisations should be working towards to create mentally healthy workplaces, and align with the CMHA Global Thriving at Work Framework.

The 10 Standards in this Guide each cover a key focus area that organisations need to address. Each Standard is underpinned by recommended actions and practices that have been drawn from across the business world. In recognition that organisations are at different stages of their mental health journey, we have broken down the recommended actions into four levels – committed, achieving, excelling and health creating.
